

DA-02-T9 Mock-ups & Screenshots — Embedded Pricing Insights

DiscountMate | DataBytes | Trimester 2 2026 | Feature 2: Insight Surfacing (Power BI Dashboards)

This document contains the visual draft prototype for DA-02-T9, restyled to match the existing Power BI dashboard and Product Comparison Page.

1. Proposed Mock-up

Screen A — Single Product Comparison page with the new Pricing Insights panel

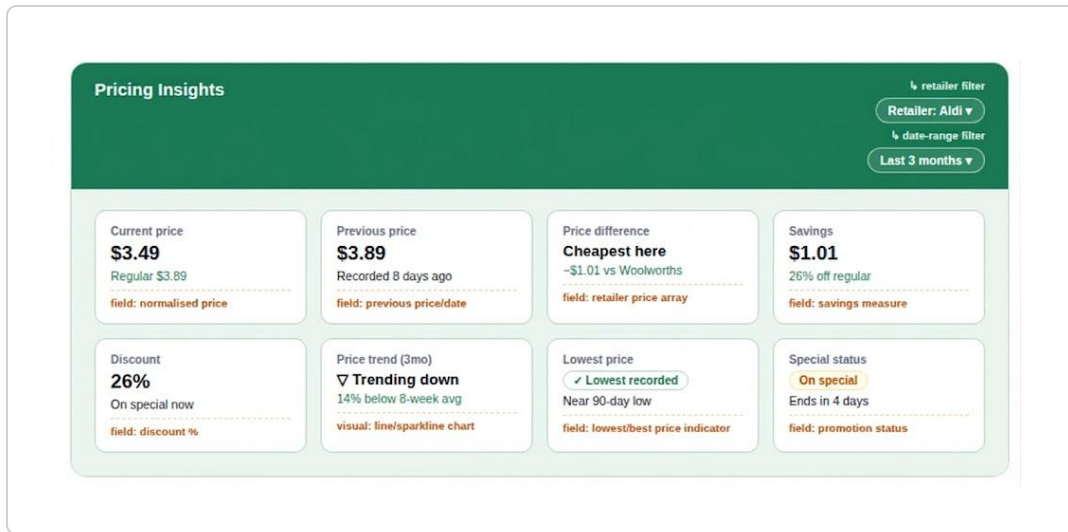

Screen A: the proposed "Pricing Insights" panel inserted between the existing "Buy now" recommendation card and the "Compare retailers" table.

What it shows:

- Eight at-a-glance metrics: current price, previous price, price difference, savings, discount %, price trend, lowest price, and special status.
- Two in-panel filters: retailer and date range, shown as dropdown filter in the panel's green header.

- The existing "View Power BI Report" button remains untouched, so customers can still open the full dashboard.

Screen B — Pricing Insights panel, component detail with annotations

Screen B: a close-up of the panel from Screen A, annotated to show which Power BI field or visual type supports each metric, and which two interactions (retailer, date range) live inside the panel itself.

What it shows:

- Each metric card is labelled with the underlying data field or visual it reuses from the existing Power BI model (e.g. "field: normalised price", "visual: line/sparkline chart").
- Confirms product and category filtering happen upstream via the page's existing search/selection controls, not inside this panel.

2. Reference screens used

The following existing screens were used as the design and functional reference for the mock-ups above.
